

Central Asian Bureau for Analytical Reporting (cabar.asia) is a digital space for local politicians, experts, academics and other key groups to share their visions of regional and local problems, exchange ideas and offer ways to overcome the barriers to intergovernmental and regional cooperation.

Central Asian Bureau for Analytical Reporting (cabar.asia) is the project of the Institute for War and Peace Reporting.

The Institute for War & Peace Reporting (IWPR) is an international media development organization that operates in 27 countries. IWPR empowers people's voices at the frontlines of conflict and transition to help them drive change. IWPR builds skills, capacity and networks for citizens and their communities so their voices can make a difference - strengthening accountability and supporting development, advancing justice and forging peace. For more information, please visit www.iwpr.net.

cabar.asia positions as an online think tank, giving voice to representatives of all sectors of Central Asian society by providing well-balanced and reliable analytical materials, investigative reports, multimedia and video reports ensures access to socially significant information of Central Asian countries.

The platform was established within the project "Strengthening Capacities, Bridging Divides - Reducing Tensions across Central Asia" supported by the Norwegian Ministry of Foreign Affairs.