

The publication “Renewable Energy Sources: What should be on the Agenda now?” was developed by Dr. Farkhod Aminjonov on the basis of the IWPR Representative Office in Central Asia and the regional analytical platform CABAR.asia.

Share and Cite:

Dr. Aminjonov F., 2020, Renewable Energy Sources: What should be on the Agenda now?, CABAR.asia, <https://doi.org/10.46950/202002>

The representative office of the Institute for War and Peace Reporting (IWPR) in Central Asia and CABAR.asia present an analytical note entitled “Renewable Energy Sources: What should be on the Agenda now?”. The publication provides a troubling analysis of the development and implementation of renewable energy sources in Central Asia.

The work is meant for young experts and consultants, researchers, decision-makers, and for the wide readership interested in issues involving the energy sector and public administration in Central Asia.

Read more about Renewable Energy Sources in Central Asia:

Download the publication in PDF

Financial support from the Government of Norway made this publication possible. The opinions expressed in the work do not reflect the official position of the government of Norway

If you have found a spelling error, please, notify us by selecting that text and pressing

Ctrl+Enter.