

Take a test “True or False” prepared by CABAR.asia to understand why journalists are sued and how they should protect their rights.

Follow us on LinkedIn

In the annual ranking prepared by Reporters Without Borders, which estimates the degree of media freedom in various countries, Kazakhstan took 157th place among 180 countries. Usually, journalists in Kazakhstan don’t receive open threats and are not killed very often, while the government contract and budget money give way to censorship.

And the new law “On media” adopted in 2017 curbs journalism and freedom of expression significantly.

If you have found a spelling error, please, notify us by selecting that text and pressing Ctrl+Enter.